WHY NEWSPAPER

Some primary five pupils were wondering why their teacher reads newsletters every morning. They decided to ask her to explain the importance of newspapers. Peter Odio, one of the pupils in primary five, went and asked the teacher “please, teacher, we always see you reading newspapers. Could you tell us why you read newspapers daily?”

The teacher thanked Peter for the good question. She said. “Now, let me tell you something about values of newspapers”. The teacher asked all the pupils if they knew some of the common newspapers in Uganda.

They mentioned The New Vision, The Daily Monitor, Rupiny, Orumuri, The East African, Bukedde, Etop and Observer.

The teacher was glad that some pupils already knew something about newsletters. She said that many people read newspapers, not only in Uganda but the world over. She said that reading newspapers enable people to get information on what is happening in Uganda and other parts of the world. This information is used by the editors to form stories called feature articles. She said that journalist and news reporters also write articles. Journalists usually move to different places in order to find interesting and exciting news items.

Uganda's newspapers contain different kinds of news, news from districts, regional news, world news, sports news, business and children's news.The Editor chooses the news items and articles they consider good for newspaper readers. Editors also arrange the articles on each of the pages in the newspapers. Radios, Television and the internet are also sources of news everyday.

Read the poem below and answer questions that follow in full sentences.

Newspapers, Newspapers,
Very early in a cold morning
"A paper, a paper, give me a paper," people shout.
To the waiting vendors on the street
Stretching their arms from the car to pick you.
Why do people struggle to get you?

Oh! Newspapers in Uganda!

The New vision, The Monitor, The Observer,
The Red Pepper, name them
Giving people all the information they need
Not only for development but also for leisure
News papers, I will always read you.

For children, you give cartoons
The cartoons that give them laughter
For adults, you give the advertisement
And make them decide on what to do.
Some get jobs while others buy goods
Making everyone smile throughout the day.

Newspapers, Newspapers
You help us improve on reading
But some of you are bad
Because you put bad pictures
Pictures of naked people
And that’s why we don’t buy you.

By Michael Hero
