SECTION B

(Each question carries 10 marks)

51. Read the passage below and then answer, in full sentences, the questions that follow.

At the end of every term, the best performers at Mbula Primary School are rewarded. This is done by the head teacher. It happens in front of other pupils. With excitement, the class teachers read out the names of the best five learners from primary one to primary six. The learners clap after each name is read out at the prize-giving ceremony.

I have a little sister who studies in this school. Last term, I was sent by my parents to fetch her for holidays. On arrival, I heard the head teacher give his end of term message to the learners. "Today we congratulate the pupils who worked hard in class this term," he said. "The three months of this third term had a lot of work, but there are pupils who excelled both in academic and in extra-curricular activities," he added.

Quickly, I walked to the school main hall. I was eager to witness the events at the end of term assembly. Besides, I looked forward to seeing my little sister receive her gift. After all, she was always number one in all the examinations. Unfortunately, my little sister was not among the best performers that term. Other pupils had taken her position in class. I was shocked.

When I tried to ask my little sister why she had declined, she simply cried. On insisting, she replied, "It is a long story; you reap what you sow, big sister!" Asking her for details, she said, "I played a lot and forgot to revise for examinations." In a soft voice, I said, "Don't worry because there is still chance for improvement." This comforted my little sister.

Immediately the assembly ended, my little sister, Matendo Veranda, packed her property. Thereafter, we boarded a motorcycle and headed home. As we had the ride, my little sister broke down again. In tears, she said, "I cannot imagine I have missed being taken to the Parliament of Uganda."

Thankfully, we reached home safely. The first person to see us was our father. He welcomed us and paid the fare to the boda boda cyclist. Next, we entered the house and found Mother busy preparing lunch for the holidaymaker. Surprisingly, Matendo instead walked straight to our bedroom and locked herself in the room. She took the envelope containing her report card with her. My father sensed something was wrong. After I settled down, I narrated the story to them. They were surprised at my little sister's performance. However, they did not blame her, but instead knelt down to pray for better results in the next class. Eventually, Matendo joined us in the prayer.

52. Read the poem below and then answer, in full sentences, the questions that follow.

Think twice, fellow Ugandans!
The human error on the environment,
That you practise for wealth,
On swamps, forests, bushes,
Cheat the future generation!

Oh! Uganda is bleeding!
Look at the floods in our country,
A sign that you make swamps homes.
Look at the endless drought,
A sign that trees are important!

Why not change our behaviour?
Instead of charcoal, use electricity.
Looking for where to build houses,
Spare swamps, wetlands.
Please, protect the environment!

The duty is for the young and the old!
Plant fruit trees around your homes,
Avoid dangerous chemicals on crops,
The root cause of the cancer disease,
Report evil activities on the environment!

54. On her arrival at the bus park, Kisuki Mambo, a P7 candidate who had just broken up for holidays, made some enquiries at the counter where he met Mrs. Maboya, the cashier. The two held a brief conversation. What the cashier said is given. Complete the dialogue with what you think were Mambo's correct words.

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: Good evening, little traveller. I am the cashier of this Bus Company.

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: To travel on our bus, you must first acquire a ticket. Where are you going?

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: I am aware that schoolchildren like you are going home for holidays, but I want to know the exact destination.

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: The fare to Mabilirizi Town is thirteen thousand shillings. Do you have any luggage from school?

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: Even if you had carried it, you wouldn't have paid any extra money. We normally transport luggage free of charge.

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: You're welcome. Which bus do you plan to board?

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: You can pay for the ten o'clock bus because we still have seats that have not been booked yet.

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: Yes, the front seat is still vacant. I know the seat next to the window will serve better for a child like you.

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: What a nice name you have! You can now pay for the ticket as you wait for the departure time of your bus.

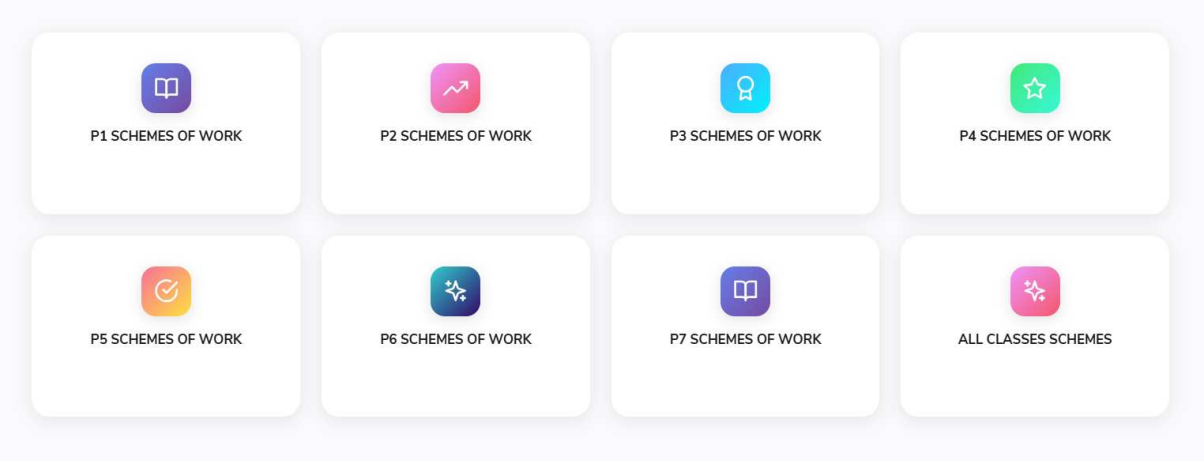

Mambo:.....

Mrs. Maboya: Thank you for the money for the ticket! We pray for journey mercies. Goodbye, Mambo.

55. Imagine you are in boarding and you are suffering from a certain disease. As a pupil of Magira Primary School, PO Box 227, Namwaya, write a letter to the school nurse informing him about your sickness. In your letter to him, mention the exact disease you are suffering from. Tell him when you began feeling unwell. Inform him about the effect of being sick on your studies. Request him to get you some sweet tablets for the disease. Give him the reason why you prefer tablets to injections. Use your school address.
