Last Sunday, after prayers, we had a family meeting. In that very meeting, a decision was taken to travel to Nakasongola. Nakasongola is our ancestral home where most of our relatives live. We had last visited him a decade ago. Our eldest brother, Mukiibi was then in Primary Seven but he is now working with Bank of Baroda.

We set off on our journey the following day. We travelled in our father's vehicle. We were all excited to travel to our home district after a long time. before setting off, we had a prayer as soon as we finished our breakfast. We set off at around 8:00a.m. The journey to Nakasongola was very interesting. We admired not only the forests along way but also the wild animals especially the monkeys. My little brother Dickson asked my mother to buy pieces of chicken for him but she refused. She told us that such flesh is always not healthy and may cause some body disorders.

At midday, we reached the small town near to our ancestral home. My parents made some shopping and then headed home. Our relatives were very happy to see us after such a long time. My grand father had prepared sweet porridge which feasted on for the rest of the day until dinner time.

I respect the police

I respect the police
For they spend sleepless nights
Even patrolling villages and towns
For the sake of our security
In our community and beyond.

I respect the police
Tirelessly they work
To eliminate crime
From our community
For the residents to live in peace.
